The Crop Outlook

The past week has been a favorable one to the development of the Crop. Warm and sunny weather predominated. There were a few scattered showers, but beyond this the weather was uniformly dry. Reports from many points in the west state that the wheat has ripened rapidly during the past ten days, and the weather during that period has added materially to the optimism which has prevailed throughout the past two months. The favorable weather has come at a time when it was most needed and when unfavorable elements would have had a most injurious effect.

It is generally conceded that prospects are more favorable now than was the case a year ago. Harvesting has been commenced on a considerable scale during the past week and it might now be said that we are at the beginning of the harvest season. The grain has been found to be quite up to the quality which has been freely ascertained would be the case. There is now no doubt of the accuracy of the prophecy made in these columns that the wheat would this year be much better than was the case in 1911.

With the question of the ripening of grain, rapidly reaching a point where it might be said to be a certainty, the attention of the business and agricultural worlds of the west now turns to the probabilities for the remainder of the harvesting season, the conditions which may prevail during the threshing season and last but not least, the possibilities of moving the crop with expedition. Nature has done her part so far in a manner better than the average. With a continuation of the prevalence of reasonably favorable conditions, during the next month, the harvesting season will have reached a successful termination and the most uncertain elements of the situation will have been eliminated.

The next element then to be considered will be the ability of the railroads to move the crop. There is every indication that the facilities in this respect will be greater and more efficacious than was the case last year. The transportation companies have made provision for a more rapid handling of the crop and it is hoped and believed that as the shipping season approaches these provisions will be made still more thorough.—Commercial.

RIMBEY

The past week of sunshine has gone far toward ripening this grain.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Budd is very sick. Dr. Sharp was called last Saturday night but gave little hope of his recovery.

A number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Thorp gathered at their home last Tuesday evening to enjoy a last visit with them at their home here. Immediately after their sale, which is to be held this week, they will go to Weiserville where they will stay for a short time before departing for an extended visit in England. Mr. and Mrs. Thorp have lived in this community for the past five or six years and during that time they have made many friends who regret to see them go. Many good wishes go with them on their journey over the water.

Owing to having spent last week at the exhibition our news items this week are pretty scarce. We saw lots, heard lots and thoroughly enjoyed ourselves while away and wish that all our readers might have spent the week there also. There was a scarcity of grain exhibits but the vegetable and all other displays were fine. We cannot see why Rimbeys cannot furnish an exhibit for next year. We saw nothing along the road that equal the crops here. But, at the end of the week we were quite convinced that "East, west, home is best."

SPRING VALLEY

Haying is now in full swing. Crops are looking very fine, and harvest will be general about Sept. 1.

Milligan and Grey have rented the Tamin farm for a number of years.

Dr. Sharpe has purchased the Thomson property.

C. Keith of Stettler has taken possession of the Victorian farm.

Ferry Cull is building a residence.

J. C. Vaughan and son have returned from Gidsley where the latter is performing domestic duties.

Miss Jones and Mrs. Dunn attended Edmonton fair last week. School commenced on Monday the 19th.

E. Wingham of Milestone, Sask., visited his sister and family whom he had not seen for twenty years.

W. H. Wilkins had two valuable horses killed by eating wild parsnip.

Mrs. Frank Randall is seriously ill at Edmonton hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Forrest of Coronation are visiting relatives in this community.

Harvest has actually begun in this district and several fields of oats and fall wheat are now in stock.

Go to the Lacombe Furniture Store for Kitchen cabinets. We can show you the best and most up-to-date that is made.

Serpentine Dancers Shocked Burgess

Pittsburg, Aug. 19.—It required the united efforts of La Belle La Mar and her two serpentine assistants, almost entirely unaided by costume, to send John L. Gribben, a burgess, of Sharpburg, Pa., into a swoon during the performance of the "Barnyard Show" in that staid and God-fearing village last evening.

Painting is not one of Mr. Gribben's specialties. But when the light fantastic trio emerged from the water, and flashed the full strength of their physical charms upon the placid village father without any warning, the effect upon him was like that of a lightning bolt.

While his companion, Chief of Police William Murphy, was striving to revive the stricken official, La Belle La Mar, wrapped largely in thought, and her two confederates, were doing their best to take away the breath of the two thousand men and youths who were determined not to miss anything by losing consciousness at that time.

"This is shocking!"

Assured of his weakness, and possibly angry at having lost much of the performance, Gribben got to his feet as soon as he came to his senses, and shouted:

"My goodness! This is shocking! It shall not go on here. Must not be permitted to go on!"

The dancers exposed a little more of their persons by opening their eyes wider than ever at such an outbreak of sentiment while the audience stood on its hind legs and howled at the burgess for failing to appreciate art unadorned by clothing.

With Chief Murphy he sought out the manager of the show and told that dignitary that the young woman would have to do some clothes or take off the act, that being very nearly the only thing left to take off.

The manager tried to prove to the rural alderman that the dances of La Belle La Mar and her nymphs was the high-water mark of art, but Gribben insisted that there was no reason for leaving their clothing behind on the lower levels, and insisted that the dancers should leave something to the imagination of the audience if they wanted to give them a tuberculosis treat.

The showman was finally compelled to give in.

As Burgess Gribben and Chief Murphy left the theatre a crowd was waiting for them outside and accosted them again with hisses and hoots when they learned of the order that had been given.

You can get the iron extension couches at the Lacombe Furniture Store, either a bed or settee, the best arrangement on the market.

Science and the Farmer who is afraid of it

Science has made the live stock industry possible by finding ways to circumvent disease through means preventing germ breeding. Yet how foolish it seems to hear of more outbreaks of a disease like the foot-and-mouth that have continually ravaged the flocks of the old world for centuries. Obsolete possessions against anything that comes from the laboratory is the real reason for this. There is no other. There is a certain class of men who refuse to believe anything they cannot see and understand. What makes it more pitiful is their refusal to learn. Hence, they go on spreading the disease and harboring it, whenever it does break out, looking upon officers of the law as enemies to be circumvented when it comes to slaughtering their cattle to exterminate the disease. This condition has kept the dreaded foot and mouth disease raging in some parts of the old country practically all the time for decades. On this side, we have concrete examples of the farmer's unwillingness to clean up his herds and flocks because of the immediate loss of dollars in the case of hog cholera, tuberculosis in cattle and glanders in horses. Our farmers on this side are quicker to grasp the necessity of eradicating the disease, however, even at the expense of some of their live stock. They have rapidly gotten hold of the situation and learned something of sanitary science, so that new discoveries of science have been quickly taken hold of and put into practical use. The foot-and-mouth has never been allowed to spread on this continent, though a few outbreaks have been reported in years past from importations from the old country. But tuberculosis, with its insidious ways, has wiped millions off the profits of our farmers simply because they refused to take hold of the government aid in eradicating it. The money that has been lost through the agency of hog cholera on this continent, especially in the corn belt in the States, would build a navy that would be able to cope with any. Science is unyielding and does not coax and explain, and few farmers relish the idea of having a professor tell them how to cure their stock by killing some of the best of it off and injecting medicines into healthy stock. Another decade will see the last of this type of farmer. Science and farming and getting chummers every day.

Lacombe Will Have Rink

Since the burning of the rink a couple of years ago, the need of such an institution has been severely felt by the citizens of the town. It has been impossible to find a private individual willing to invest the amount of money necessary to erect a suitable building, and so the council has decided to take advantage of the new act and build a municipal skating rink. At least the council will bring the project before the ratepayers at once, and have hopes that the project will be carried.

The council has safeguarded the interests of the town in this matter as in everything undertaken this year. Reliable parties are willing to bind themselves to pay at least seven percent on the investment as rental for a term of years, and as the town can borrow the money for five per cent this will allow a sinking fund to be started which will eventually wipe out the entire cost. Other parties are willing to purchase the rink outright as soon as it is built, on the same terms of repayment as the town sources on the debentures.

The rink, including the grounds, well, etc., will cost in the neighborhood of six thousand dollars. The site has not yet been decided upon, but a committee will take charge of this matter at once, and the best site available will be secured.

The proposed rink will be an iron structure, well seated, and ample waiting and dressing rooms provided, and it will be made as fireproof as possible. The town will control the rink to the extent that the skating public will have all the skating they want. One full night a week will be given to hockey enthusiasts on two other evenings the hockeyists will have the use of the ice from 7 till 8, after which it is open to skaters, and on the other three nights there will be skating from 7 o'clock until 10 or 11. Saturday afternoons are reserved for the school children who will be allowed to skate free of charge, and the fee will be kept in shape for them.

The teachers, ministers, parents, and other citizens who have the welfare of the rising generation at heart, are all in favor of this scheme, and all now recognize the fact that if Lacombe is to have a rink at all, it will have to be built by the town on debenture.

W. E. Tees Again A Winner

Lacombe's premier prize winner is W. E. Tees. As usual "Billy" took a large exhibit to the Edmonton Exhibition, and went up against the best stuff in Alberta. That the other stuff was not in it is evidenced by the fact that the man from Lacombe won.

Twenty-five firsts.
 Nine seconds.
 Three thirds.
 One fourth.
 Two silver medals.
 Six Championships.

These prizes were all for cattle and hogs, and the judges remarked that in their experience they had never seen such an able exhibit by one exhibitor. Mr. Tees has shipped his stock to Lethbridge Exhibition, and expects to do equally well there.

Talk about boasting the Lacombe district—W. E. Tees is certainly doing what he can to show the outside world that we have the greatest district on earth.

One 4-room house for rent—Bailey.

Harvest is On

The harvest has commenced, the sun still shines brightly, every available workman, horse and mule is beginning to sniff the odor of the freshly-cut grain sheaf, and the early morning sun sees the activity of myriads of harvesters on thousands of hills garnering in the grain crop of 1912, which will exceed all former years in the prairie provinces.

The harvest and threshing season which will last for four, six, or even eight months has just commenced. In many places in the prairie provinces where the grain yield is heavy and exceeds expectations, threshing and marketing grain continues throughout the entire year, and many farmers in this district have just finished disposing of their last year's grain in time to commence cutting again, refilling their granaries and marketing the surplus again, hauling their grain to the points of shipment.

At the present time, according to well informed students of the crop situation indications point to a greater return to the farmer and kindred interests than last year. This optimism is based upon the good maturing weather and the possibility of getting the crop under cover before the bad weather sets in. As the season is in advance of last it is believed this will be accomplished.

A Game of Defiance But Not of Deceit

(Brooklyn Eagle.)

It seems to be assumed upon what authority is not stated that the President will sign the bill breaking treaty obligations in the matter of Panama Canal charges, regardless of the place to which it will consign him in history.

Money will be saved by the owners of ships flying the flag of this country. When that statement is made, the whole story of the advantages that will accrue is told. That is the sole reason for repudiating the covenant made and provided.

There will be other consequences. Hitherto the people of this country have taken some degree of pride in its reputation for it is too much to say that what has been done at Panama has commanded the admiration of the civilized world.

New comes a stigma. Now comes a breach of faith, which, as the St. Louis American protests, reflects upon every one of the ninety-five millions of people living beneath the flag.

Now comes a stain upon the flag itself.

Right makes might, but the rule does not work the other way. We have the power to discriminate against the other party or parties to the covenant. There is not the least danger that the stigma of Great Britain will be asserted by force.

This makes matters worse instead of better. It places the country in the position of relying upon strength rather than the merits of the case, quotation marks being used because there are no merits. We are demonstrating that they shall take who have the power.

The Times is wrong in calling it a game of deceit and defiance. It is a game of defiance, but not one of deceit. We are proclaiming our purposes from the housetops without a blush but the Times is right in calling it a case of national dishonor.

To this the President may lend the sanction of his name. Taking for granted the truth of the rumors that he has made up his mind to become a party to the transaction, he will display some impressions and say what he pleases.

If one infraction of a treaty can be worse than another, then the Senate's freedom of the Panama Canal to American ships in the foreign trade is worse than its free canal service to coastwise ships. This establishes a direct discrimination against foreign ships. It is without even a pretense of observing the Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

The Old Treason

Mr. Joseph Martin, M.P., at Westminster, takes pleasure in effective expression, so that accusations by him need to be confirmed. He has laid a very grave charge at the door of the Minister of the Crown. He says that Mr. Haasen told the people in England that the Canadian Conservative victory of September twenty-first was a victory against the separation of Canada from Britain.

Mr. Haasen may have only meant to say that in his feeble opinion, the ultimate result of the Reciprocity treaty with the United States would have been the severance of Canada from Great Britain. It would have been a harmless enough thing to say here, except for himself, as every one who knows anything of Canada would just have classed him with the rest of the simple ones who were dragged at the chariot tail of the inventor of that preposterous nonsense, conceived and diligently promulgated for the interested purpose of preserving privilege.

Possibly he explained that that was all he meant. But that was not the way his hearers would take an assertion with which their own purchased press has been everywhere running over in the interest aforesaid. Those hearers had been taught by those whom we can only regard as the enemies of Canada—some of them, being Canadians, treasonable enemies—that one-half of the Canadian people voted at that election for separation from the empire and that the country was only saved by the small preponderance of those who voted against the treason.

It was for Mr. Haasen, as a loyal Canadian, to defend his people indignantly, and vehemently against that slander. If instead of that, he, as Mr. Martin avers, purposely left on any of his English hearers the impression that there was truth in that view, he committed his own country, and slandered half of its people in a way that they are never called upon to forgive until he makes honorable amends.

"I have no doubt," said Mr. Martin, "that this speech of Mr. Haasen has caused Mr. Churchill to come to the conclusion that it is his duty as a member of the Imperial Government to come over to Canada to teach the Liberal party of Canada that they must be loyal to British connection and abandon the fanciful policy of annexation." Mr. Churchill did not, however, need Mr. Haasen's repetition of this aspersion to get it fixed in his mind as it has been done in the English people ever since Macdonald raved like Mrs. Howarth about never deserting the British Empire. It is a slander from which Canadians have in Britain but poor defence. So far, at least, as our observation goes, Mr. Martin's statement is correct that the Liberal press of Britain has shown itself very poorly informed in this matter and has failed to make due use of facts that were easily within its reach for the vindication of Canadian Liberals from misrepresentations which they bitterly resent. For the Liberal press of Britain there is this to be said, that, with yellow journal methods on the one hand, what with the lavish support given to a press working other interests than those of the people on the other, it has been much crippled. It is becoming a question whether as between these two a really public-spirited press can hold its own there.

"My GURNEY OXFORD jumped right in and helped with my housekeeping"

Dear Edith,

In a general way I have wished you all the good things I know of, so now I am going to descend to the practical and give you some sound advice from the store I have accumulated since I started housekeeping.

Housekeeping naturally suggests the kitchen first—its equipment and management, or in other words, THE RANGE.

My range, as you know, is a Gurney-Oxford. I never enjoyed much of a reputation as a cook in my younger days, so when I thought of being responsible for three meals a day my heart sank. I imagined myself battling all day with a sulky range, trying to coax it into a good humour, and covered with mortification because of late or spoiled meals. But my dear, my Gurney-Oxford seemed to sympathize with my inexperience. From the day it came it jumped right in and helped. It has become my good right hand, and I go my way confident that my Gurney-Oxford will not disappoint me.

It has the cleverest arrangement for regulating the drafts, well named the Gurney Economizer. One small lever put up or down does everything. The fire will stay in all day, hardly burning any coal at all—then, presto! It is burning brightly, ready to bake or roast. An arrangement of flues keeps the oven always properly heated, so that the biscuits or bread come out light and crisp and brown. Yes, Edith, as Bob says, I have developed into "some cook," and I often tell him he must give at least half the credit to our Gurney-Oxford.

You will understand my enthusiasm better after you have had your Gurney-Oxford a month or so.

Sincerely Yours,

MARY HOUSEWIFE.

The Ranch Land Problem

From every direction there comes evidence of interest in the question of the future of the ranches. And when this topic is under discussion it is soon discovered that the knotty problem is—how shall the land be administered?

It is plain enough to everyone that there are large tracts of land which given the treatment that is most general on western homesteads and farms will not return sufficient to maintain a bachelor much less a family on half a section. Sometimes, under more scientific methods, these lands will be brought under cultivation and made to produce but in the meantime they are purely ranching lands. But homesteaders are filling on these lands and crowding out the ranchers which results in the country as a whole becoming poorer.

Under our present system of handling crown lands the public not only gets nothing for its lands but very often the homesteader abandons his claim in the ranching districts and the public property is left in a deteriorated condition. Also under our present system, a rancher is not given any reasonable assurance that he may continue in business.

Some policy, that will meet the changed conditions, should be adopted with respect to the administration of ranch lands and for that matter of all public lands. The time is now past when we need to offer rich new lands to induce settlement. The settlers now in the country have given a value to these public lands which they have a right to realize upon and therefore public lands should be available to those who would give most for them subject to settlement regulations.

As for the ranch lands these should be available to those who are willing to give most for them also. Some form of lease should be prepared whereby the rancher who once established his herds on a grazing tract would be secured so long as he paid what the use of the land would bring in open competition subject to regulations. This might be worked out by giving a man a lease for an indefinite term subject to a competitive bid every five years. This would tend to promote settlement and ranching industry; it would give the government and the public the full value of the land; it would tend to induce the rancher to get every possible dollar out of the use of land so that the others could not outbid him; and the principles of just administration would be upheld. True there would be weakness in this system but we should work toward a betterment of the system at present in vogue.

The Utmost of Life

It is strange how pleased we all are when some one carries this life to its utmost limit. We are pleased when some one reaches the pole. It is our urge that has outdone other things. We are pleased when some one exerts in Olympic tests in proportion as the victor is one of ourselves. But he who is victor over the years comes nearest home, for in him we see ourselves living ever so long—not in the reasoning part of us—that knows better—but down in the semi-lunar plexus or wherever it is that dwells our subliminal being—that which has many times the power over our lives that conscious thinking has. We shall all live longer because Lord Strathearn has lived long and is still under high pressure at ninety-two, because his doing so helps us to expect to. Any endurance man will tell you that a man's own unconscious expectancy is one of the most important symptoms from which to determine how long he is going to live. Old age is now desired than it is in many cases. It was an old world desire to retire and no longer have to work—a sure path to the grave. The only basis of living, and the only condition of healthy living is in living for one. To live into a condition of unproductive dependence is not to be desired; but to be found working and serving mankind at ninety-two—that is a prospect that few of us would welcome. The period of life is steadily growing longer, and what is rare today will be common in days to come when men have learned to live aright and when they shall inherit good conditions from those who have lived aright.

"Were all medicines as meritorious as Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy the world would be made better off and the percentage of suffering greatly decreased," writes Lindsay Scott, of Temple, Ind. For sale by Lacombe Drug Co.

The White Plume Fetish

Prior to the last federal election the premier brought his supporters to follow his "white plume" to victory, an injunction which since the disaster has encountered he has repeated. Recently his leading organ in the Ontario press has made a similar fatal leadership. It says the time will come when the neighboring republic will discover Lloyd George. Already there would seem to be quite a crowd of political fakirs in the field who wish to impose a harness, oppressed and perplexed democracy that they are, individually, the long-expected statesmen who will deliver the people from the thrall of the "big intensifier."

All this is indicative of the fact that while in North America the instruments of government are within the power of the people, democratic capacity for their legitimate use is but little developed and that both in Canada and the United States, we are still held down by the traditions and inherited instincts of many centuries of autocracy. A characteristic which is in danger of perpetuation, owing to the absorption of hundreds of thousands of new citizens, fresh from its control and untrained in the art and responsibility of self-government.

A generation ago a somewhat similar attitude was assumed by the newly enfranchised people in Britain. Gladstone and Bainesfield were in proportion for their respective political affiliations, their idol statesmen who, in the political sense, could do no wrong, and in whose hands their followers considered the destiny of the empire and the happiness of the people were quite made.

Those days in Britain have gone. In the meantime the ever-growing political intelligence of the common people has evolved a democracy which takes no account of granted and in both critical and analytical in the consideration of the policies and motives of the men called "leaders" and who have the supreme control of the instruments of government and legislation.

The constructive statesmanship and the political achievements of David Lloyd George would entitle him to a measure of confidence which neither Lancelotti, Roosevelt nor Taft has the right to expect, for so far as we can judge, those politicians have not, to any appreciable extent, contributed to the more equitable distribution of the wealth of their respective countries or to the development of the character of the people subject to their authority. These two features must be regarded as the principal functions of government, and by extent to which they are practiced must be ascertained the measure of political genius shown, and of the title of public confidence.

If David Lloyd George was to draw the "white plume" on the confidence of the people of Britain which is implied by the "white plume" conception of leadership, he would for months be the subject of jocular and derision and a source of humiliation to his friends and supporters. While conscientious and capable leadership is necessary to good government, it is the degree of intelligence shown by the rank and file that decides its quality. If it were not for the remarkable energy, capacity and sacrifice displayed by many thousands of people during the last half century in the promotion of the social, economic and political aims of the British Democracy, the voice of David Lloyd George would be that of one crying in the wilderness; if, indeed, it were heard at all.

There is no hope of any considerable measure of social justice in Canada or the United States until the people wake up, and prove the faculty and assume the personal responsibility for good government, as against the vicarious attitude represented by the "white plume" incident.

Every truly patriotic Canadian should join in the invocation of the poet Browning: "Send us no more giants, God, but elevate the race at once." We do not want heaven-sent "leaders" but heaven-sent men.

The Canadian Co-Operator.

Mr. W. S. Gussalus, a farmer living near Fleming, Pa., says he has used Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in his family for fourteen years and that he has found it to be an excellent remedy, and taken pleasure in recommending it. For sale by Lacombe Drug Co.

Grandpa's Graham

It is just what many people have been wanting. There is nothing new about it. It is the genuine old-fashioned graham. "The kind Grandpa used to use." It is simply good milling wheat ground up without anything taken from it or added to it. In using "Grandpa's Graham" for baking one part of it with one of two parts of white flour according to taste, and a more delicious, sweet bread cannot be obtained. For porridge it must be stirred in only when the water is boiling vigorously, and then 15 or 20 minutes of slow boiling improves it.

Reasons for Use.

First—it is in itself a balanced ration.

Second—the porridge properly made and served with cream is surprisingly delicious.

Third—it is very nutritious.

Fourth—a liberal use of Grandpa's porridge and Grandpa's bread is a sure cure for constipation and all its attending ills.

Fifth—in view of its delicious, nutritious and medicinal qualities, it is decidedly economical.

The present generation by the failure of demanding nice, white foods, regardless of ingredients and process of making is suffering many ills. Those who will place wholesomeness ahead of looks and will eat the diet of our grand parents will attain their strength and health with the consequent happiness.

Try the "Grandpa's Graham" and prove for yourself its merits.

Reduction of High Cost of Living

Charles S. Hotchkiss, Alberta's Publicity Commissioner, says farmers of the United States must farm with their brains. He has just returned from a trip to Southern States, and this is what he has to say:

"If the high cost of living in the United States is to be reduced there must be more intensive tillage of the soil. This is the conclusion he arrives at as a result of his trip, during which he had the opportunity of thinking out some knotty problems. 'Intensive farming,' says Mr. Hotchkiss, 'means farming with brains, which soil mining does not. The soil miner is simply the spendthrift living on his capital; the intensive farmer is the man who husband his resources, so that while he gets a good living out of his capital his capital is increasing all the time. Farming is now a science and it is knowledge of the best methods of soil tillage which must bring about the best results. The man who farms with brains is the man who is going to do most toward the solution of the high cost of living puzzle.'"

America, according to Mr. Hotchkiss, has come to realize that something must be done and done quickly to reduce the high cost of foodstuffs. In the States they have not the room for unlimited expansion of dry farming. The man who farms scientifically makes easily 50 or 100 per cent. more than his neighbor, who farms in a haphazard manner. "These are some of the home truths that Mr. Hotchkiss has rediscovered during his trip north. The population of America has doubled in the last 25 years and she is receiving a million immigrants per annum. 'Agriculture has been the great bear of the world's burdens in all ages and will continue to be so. The man who supplies the raw materials for the factories and the cities of life,' Mr. Hotchkiss insists, 'ought to stand first in the consideration of those who have to do with the governing of a nation.'"

While the death rate is decreasing and the population increasing, the lines of consumption and production are drawing closer together in the United States. The economic problems that are confronting the American nation can best be solved by an increase of the production. One of the great problems is to make the husbandman more prosperous, contented and happy. He is the natural applier of the economic problems of the day, standing as he does, midway between organized capital and organized labor. The doctor, lawyer, preacher and teacher, his clerk or manufacturer cannot of themselves produce one dollar's worth until it has been dug out of the soil. When it had been dug up everybody gets his share. "In the States where the farmer is prosperous everybody is prosperous, and consequently agriculture demands the first thought and attention of the nation. There are millions of people in the Eastern States and there were millions of acres on which they could be placed if they were able to qualify for it in agriculture. While 'back to the land' is an old cry, it remains for this age to make it practicable by providing the information that will enable agriculturists to succeed in making a good living out of the soil. Denmark, as an example to the rest of the world of what can be done to make agriculture more profitable and attractive."

"In Denmark the farmer has been made the equal, socially of the doctor, lawyer and merchant, and the country has advanced by leaps and bounds. To day Denmark stands without a peer economically in the civilized world. Denmark is maintaining twenty-eight agricultural colleges which are teaching an intensive system of agriculture. 'Better farming methods can be employed in Alberta, and in consequence a proportionate increase in success as attends their employment in other countries,' said Mr. Hotchkiss, in conclusion. 'It needs to be reiterated here that farming with the aid of science and chemistry is going to be a long way ahead of the man with the old-fashioned methods. Through his trip to the south Mr. Hotchkiss found that the farmers of the Southern States feeling more than a passing attraction for the free, fertile soil of Alberta."

FEARED HE HAD CONSUMPTION

"Fruit-Lives" Cured Him
"I wish to tell you of the great good 'Fruit-Lives' have done for me. For years, I was a sufferer from Chronic Catarrh and Stomach Trouble. I was greatly run down and my friends feared I had Consumption. I tried numerous doctors and all kinds of medicines, but received no relief until I decided to try 'Fruit-Lives'. I am pleased to say that I now enjoy excellent health. 'Fruit-Lives' was the best medicine made, and I strongly advise my friends to use them."

HUGH McKENNA.
"Fruit-Lives" is the only medicine that will positively and completely cure Consumption. This wonderful compound of fruit juices acts directly on the liver, causing this organ to excrete more bile into the blood, and to give up more bile to move the bowels regularly and naturally. The Motor Boat

The motor boat is a series of short-handled explosions entirely surrounded by small. The reason is that all of the conversation carried on aboard a motor boat while it is in a state of eruption is borrowed from the sign language of a deaf and dumb home. Motor boats are built for the purpose of hitting the high spots in the brain deep on the principle of the Swedish belt. The speed of one of these boats depends to a large extent upon whether the skipper is full or only half full. The motive power of a motor boat consists of 18-cent gasoline mixed with ripe profanity, which makes one of the most disgusting and odorous combinations in the annals of any people. Nothing ever goes wrong with a motor boat except when you want to get somewhere by water. This is a dangerous experiment, as the boat is liable to choke up with suppressed rage and stand on its hind feet in a protesting attitude. Almost all of the motor boats now afloat are subject to disease, the most common complaints being the shivering palsy, paralysis of the duodenum, stiff neck, cirrhosis of the crank-shaft, and granulation of the spark plug. Any one of these diseases is likely to prove fatal unless checked in time by going over the engine with the reverse end of an axe. The motor boat which comes in contact with the water when under full speed is considered a melancholy failure. The late models run on the keel in a perpendicular position, giving the passenger the soothing sensation of riding a Montana mule with the bridle off. The most pleasing feature of the motor boat is the exhaust, which is a cross between a cannon fire-cracker and the crack of doom. It explodes with increasing energy and openings yawning crevices in the ear drums of the innocent bystander. In all other respects the motor boat makes an ideal Christmas present.

on Thursday, 8th, inst., Rev. M.

After the wedding the young couple and friends drove to

Mrs. L. N. Graham had prepared a twenty wedding breakfast.
For the present Mr. and Mrs.

All records have been broken at the Lacombe Creamery, this season, the output for one week
now being almost to that of a month a year ago. The farmers are going into dairying heavier every year.

Wm. Purvis, of Calgary, was a visitor at Lacombe over Sunday, and was taken on an auto trip through out beautiful valleys by A. Urquhart, and goes home fully convinced that Lacombe is the best mixed farming district on the North American continent.

Harvesting is general all through the district this week.
Barley will be all sale in a few days, and wheat is also out of danger in most localities. The yield this year will be very heavy, and with favorable weather
the Lacombe District will make a record hard to beat. Haying is in full swing, thousands of tons going up every day. The season is a month ahead of last year.

The crowd at the lake has not diminished. Every cottage is full to capacity, and many are making arrangements to stay through September. Now that the weather has settled everyone on the beach is in good humor, and delighted with the place. Next year will see even more crowds than ever, and those fortunate enough to own front beach lots should put up cottages as there will be a great demand.

Remember that Lacombe's big fair takes place on September 18 and 19. The prize lists, entry forms, etc., have been mailed out, and if anyone has been missed in the mailing, extra copies can be secured from the secretary or at this office.
Everyone should boost Lacombe's fair. Try and make the fair of 1912 the best yet held.
We have the staff here to make a good exhibit, and a little work is all that is required from members of the association.
Good prizes are hung up in every class, especially for horses and cattle, and the best in the district should be brought out.
Remember the dates—Sept. 18
and 19.

The Epworth League picnic,
held at Gull Lake on Monday evening was a great success and much enjoyed by all who went.
The ladies provided a fine supper which all were ready for when they reached the lake. After supper they gathered around the camp fire and an impromptu program was given by different members of the party.

A couple of men in the employ of Capt. Evans and J. J.
Kasza decided on Sunday that it was a good time to quit their jobs while their employers were away from home, so packed their trunks and left. They took in addition to their own goods
some valuable property belonging to their employers. The police were informed and are now after the gentlemen with warrants.

H. F. Tilley, travelling representative of the C. T. P.
railway, was in town today in the interests of his road. Citizens contemplating a trip
east can secure from the local agent here, John McKenty, transportation to all points in Saskatchewan, Manitoba, and Ontario, at the same rates as those charged by other lines,
the fare from here to Edmonton being remitted.

STANDING GRAIN COMPETITION

The winners in the standing grain competition under the auspices of the Lacombe Agricultural Society, for 1912, are:
Oats—Lat. C. R. Abbott; and
J. C. Jacobson; 3rd, E. W.
Simpson.

Winter wheat—1st, Capt. Evans.
Spring wheat—1st, J. Atsinger.
The score in the oats was exceptionally high, the third prize field being just nine points below the possible. There were not many entries in wheat, but what was shown was a good sample and scored the possible.
Roy Trout of Blackfalds was the winner of the first prize for oats
in the Red Deer Competition, and his 1st prize oats scored just one quarter of a point higher than the field that took third prize at Lacombe.
This all goes to show that when it comes to grain growing Lacombe District is just a little better than any other district in Alberta.

Hon. C. R. Mitchell Visits Lacombe

Hon. C. R. Mitchell, Minister of Public Works for the Province of Alberta, was a visitor
in Lacombe on Tuesday last,
the guest of Mr. Jesse Fraser,
Mr. Fraser took the Hon. gentleman for an auto tour
through the country surrounding Lacombe, and as this was Mr. Mitchell's first visit to our district, he was naturally greatly impressed with our possibilities. He was also taken out to Gull Lake, and enjoyed a voyage per motor boat on this beautiful sheet of water. He is now one more booster for Lacombe and Lacombe's Summer Resort. He had no idea until yesterday that there was such a lovely resort in Alberta.
Before going away he was approached by the Mayor with respect to the travelling of the Gull Lake road. Mr. Mitchell said that he could see the necessity for immediate work on this piece of road, and that in the interests of the large number of farmers in the west country who were compelled to travel it, it would be put in shape
at once. He could not promise that the road would be gravelled at once, but promised repairs with gravel would be made immediately. In future all repair work will be done with gravel, and by this means in two or three years the capable road would be of gravel.
The ditching would all be deepened this autumn. His deputy,
Mr. John Stocks, would be sent down in a day or two to look the road over and arrange for its repair.
